William S. Hein & Co., Inc. Honors Daniel P. Rosati, Senior Vice-President, For 30 Years of Devoted Service

BUFFALO, NY July 28, 2010 – July 21, 2010 marked the thirty-year anniversary of Senior Vice President Daniel P. Rosati's employment with William S. Hein & Co., Inc. The Hein Company has had the pleasure of having Rosati's leadership, hard work and dedication since July of 1980.

Rosati graduated from the State University of New York College at Buffalo in 1977 with a Bachelor's Degree in Information Systems Management. He came to the Hein Company as a contract computer programmer and was later hired by Hein as the "Computer Coordinator" in July of 1980. In 1986, Rosati became Assistant Vice President, and today, as Senior Vice President, he oversees the IST, Editorial and HeinOnline production areas.

Rosati is widely considered the resident expert in all technology-related issues. He was one of the original architects of Hein's most successful product, HeinOnline, moving the company from its traditional roots into the digital age. With his patience and perseverance he was able to effectively execute the vision of Company President, Kevin Marmion, to make a digital library and together, with Scott Fiddler they created HeinOnline.

Rosati states, "I am grateful for the years I have spent at Hein, not only did I learn a great deal about business, publishing and legal libraries, but I have learned the true value of family from our owner and our president."

Rosati upholds the values represented in the organization's mission statement: integrity and honesty, dedication to quality and service, corporate citizenship, commitment to excellence, valuing employees, teamwork and open communication.
